

Registro de osteopatas de Argentina (ROA)

The Registro de Osteopatas de Argentina (ROA) is an association established in 1990 to promote osteopathy. The ROA has 32 members and 40-50 students per year and is located in the federal capital of Buenos Aires. ROA's membership is open to all professionals and students that have met the required training.

The objectives of the ROA are as follows:

- Certify training and retraining of professionals enrolled in the registry.
- Guarantee high level of competence and respect for professional ethics.
- Caring for the observation of the code of ethics.
- Promote the quality of training of osteopaths in educational institutions whose programs are at the levels of international schools, as well as support the training of colleagues through graduate seminars.
- Promote recognition of the profession at the state and private sectors.
- Encourage the solidarity of its members.

ROA's major activities include:

- Dissemination of relevant information to osteopaths via the web, through lectures, seminars, meetings and through articles and personal contact.
