

In recognition of International Osteopathic Healthcare Week, April 15-21, 2018, the NBOME is sponsoring a series of events to increase awareness of osteopathic medicine in communities across the country. The week includes a variety of educational and interactive, fun events to promote osteopathic medicine, including:

- Community blood pressure screenings by NBOME DOs in our Chicago and Philadelphia offices with tips for helping maintain a healthy blood pressure and information on “What is a DO?”
- Educational session, "What is Osteopathic Medicine?" hosted by NBOME President and CEO, John R. Gimpel, DO, MEd
- Jeopardy-the osteopathic medicine edition, hosted by NBOME VP for Clinical Skills Testing Gretta Gross, DO, MEd
- NBOME staff making a mind, body and spirit connection with morning yoga stretches
- Daily posts on social media to share how osteopathic medicine makes a difference in our lives
- Fellowship activities for professional staff involved in promoting the importance of osteopathic medicine

Happy International Osteopathic Healthcare Week 2018!
